

Personally, Nimrod Vromen is in a never ending war with the imposter syndrome.

Even if you, the reader, thinks he is winning this war, you can trust that reality is that he is, in fact, losing.

Professionally, Nimrod Vromen lives and breathes startups, investors (private and VC), and acquirers. With over 15 years of experience in the high-tech sector, Nimrod has represented hundreds of startups from inception through their entire life cycle.

Among them are several businesses he guided from the inception of their idea, through their evolution, to becoming a mature company and/ or being acquired.

In 2020, Nimrod, together with the firm and Mr. Moshe Levin (an experienced venture capitalist and executive), founded Consiglieri - an innovative consulting firm for startups and investors in Israel and around the world.

As part of his activity in the startup ecosystem, he also co-founded and co-manages YTech Runway Ltd., a platform for entrepreneurs and investors - see www.founderrunway.com.
